Senior Researcher (m/f)

Business Ethics/Sustainability Management

40 hours per week, permanent

WHAT WE OFFER: DIVERSE

Are you open to new things? We promote innovative thinking and action and see diversity as our particular strength

- An excellent academic environment awaits you: the members of the Research Cluster at FHWien der WKW have a specific research mandate with correspondingly reduced teaching commitments and publish their research results in leading international journals, including Business Ethics Quarterly, Journal of Management Studies, Organization Studies and Strategic Management Journal. The Research Cluster collaborates with leading international companies and educational institutions as well as with numerous civil society organizations.
- We are a modern and family-friendly employer with a flexible working time model. We support your personal and professional development. In our multicultural teams we treat each other with trust and respect. We pay according to qualification - but at least a total annual gross salary of 50,000 euros for 40 hours per week.
- Possibility of obtaining an FH professorship if the requirements according to our internal guidelines are met.

YOUR TASKS: ENGAGING

Do you want to help shape the future? You will help develop the Research Cluster into a nationally leading and internationally visible institution. Your tasks essentially comprise the following activities:

- Carrying out research projects and publication of the results in recognized academic peer-reviewed journals and transfer journals
- Presentation of research results at international conferences and networking within the academic community
- Acquisition and implementation of third-party funded projects
- Coordination and quality assurance of courses in Business Ethics and Sustainability Management as well as independent delivery of courses and lectures in German and English (comparatively low teaching load)
- Supervision of Bachelor's and Master's theses

YOUR CONTRIBUTION: MEANINGFUL

For you, working in the education sector is more than just a job? You meet the requirements for this position and thus make a meaningful contribution:

- You have a university degree with a doctorate in economics (or in a related discipline) and have several years of academic experience in the fields of corporate social responsibility, corporate and business ethics, strategic sustainability management or ethical leadership
- You have experience in the successful acquisition of third-party funds
- You have excellent writing and methodological skills, which you have already proven through publications in leading academic journals and transfer journals.
- You have already been able to gain experience in teaching and in the supervision of theses
- You impress us with your communication skills and initiative. A sense of responsibility as well as enthusiasm and team spirit round off your interesting profile.
